BRIDGE.—As there has been so many versions to the burning of the Bridge, the following statement, (which we believe is to be relied on) may be acceptable to the public:—

We understand that the common road bridge at the Falls of Schuylkill, was discovered to be on fire about one o'clock stright on the morning of the 22th inst. by the toll keeper, a woman, who was confined to her bed by sickness, but whose position enabled her to see through the bridge, who gave the alarm to the watchman, when the fire was confined to a space probably less than the crown of a man's hat. The watchman immediately proceeded with a bucket of water to the spot, and threw it on the fire, but instead of extinguishing it, they state, it only tended to scatter and extend it, up the sides of the bridge, and before any more water was procured the old bridge was extensively enveloped in flames, and in a very few namutes caught the Reading Railroad Bridge, which crosses one corner of the old bridge, about the height of the comb of the roof, and in a short time the whole of the wood work of both bridges, together with the toll house, were destroyed. The exc-llent cut stone piers and abutments of the Railroad bridge is somewhat figured by the cracking of the stone from the great heat of the fire, but whether they will be sufficient for a new superstructure, requires closer examination than I had an opportunity of making.

This Railroad bridge is said to be between 650 and 700 feet in length in four spans, and will require the best part of a season to rebuild; whether safe to attempt its repair this season is extremely doubtful, as all the timber is to be procured, and if not furnished before January, the false work will be exceedingly unsafe on account of the usual ice freshets at that season of the year, which sometimes rise 20 feet in height.

Perhaps the accident happening at this time is a misfortune to the public, as well as the company, as they had been in operation but about one month in trying their great experiment of carrying coal fr

DEFER NOT UNTIL TO-MORROW WHAT can be done to day, is an old maxim; yet, notwithstanding its age, its sentiments are noble. We intend to remind our readers of this maxim at present, with a view to enforce upon their minds the immediate necessity there is for those of them who are suffering from diseases of the Lungs, such as coughs, colds, asthmas and consumption, of resorting to some remedy at once sure and effectual. As we have here attempted to give advice, we here also venture to recommend a remedy, which we know to be sure, speedy, and efficacious from our own experience. That remedy is J. Pease and Son's Clarified Essence of Hoarhound Candy, which article is manufactured by them at No. 45 Division street. This article we know to be unequalled in its virtues and success in the above complaints, and we also consider it as one of the greatest inventions of the age for the purification of the blood; and it also assists in removing eruptions from the skin. We can only once more say, let the afflicted satisfy themselves by calling at the above named establishment, and purchasing a very small quantity of this Compound, the use of which will dispet all the clouds of doubt, and prove the truth of the assertions here made.

(173- A CITY DANCE.—Two lovely girls met in the Park in the morning, both elegantly dressed, both beautiful, one almost magnificently so.

"My dear Eliza," cried one, "how do you feel this morning, after the dance last evening at the Pavilion."

"Very well; we didn't stay late, you know. You seemed to enjoy yourself. By the way, Emma, that new dress becomes you, and is just the thing."

"Oh! but Eliza, how well you looked and are looking now. I never saw such an alteration in any human being. You look so dignified and queen-like."

"Where is the alteration, my dear Emma!" said Eliza, smiling, and looking in lated transcendently lovely.

"Why, it seems as if your face and forehead had grown larger and broader."

"It has, my dear—and if you wish I will tell you a secret. I have entirely destroyed all the hair which grew down on my forehead—removed a part of my evebrows, where they joined over the nose, and freed my lips from what threatened to be a beard."

"But how—what magic has worked this transformation?"

"No magic at all, but a scientific powder prepared by that skiiful chemist, Dr. Felix Gouraud."

The ladies partiel—and doubt not that Emma will avail herself of the most wonderful discovery which modern science has added to the toilet of beauty.

GF THEY DEBILITATE AND RELAX THE VERY vessels that should be strengthened and stimulated. A moment's reflection will convince any sensible person of this. The use of oily matter causes more baldness than all other causes. Ladies, remember this, and let your toilet be furnished with the Baim of Columbia—a spirituous extract of the most tonic and astringent roots but no alkalies whatever, with the most fragrant perfume. Near two hundred cases of late and positive restoration of the hair by it, are reported by living subjects, and nearly all the fashionables use it as a perfume and purifier, even if they are not losing the hair. CC WORMS ARE THE CAUSE OF THOUSANDS of deaths—many suffer for months and years from some distressing complaint, and are doctored without suspecting the true cause, and therefore get no benefit. Sherman's Worm Lozenges have cured thousands who had been given up as past recovery. Scarcely a day passes without new instances of their wonderful virtues. Four years' extensive use has established them beyond the possibility of a doubt—so go to 106 Nassau street, and get the genuine Sherman's Lozenges.

(g)—CHATHAM THEATRE.—A rare treat is offered at this theatre to-night, which will be properly appreciated by the lovers of good acting. Mr. Forrest appears in his celebrated character of Virginius in the tragedy of that name, (by many thought to be his chef downer, supported by Miss Clifton as Virginia, J. R. Scott as Dentatus, and Hield as Icilius. The Swiss Cottage terminates the performance, in which Mrs. Thorne appears as Lisette, and sings some of her admired songs.

As yet there is but a very small business doing in bills for the steam packet of the 1st, via Boston. Owing to the small supply, the rate is however firm.

The Southern business, for the coming season, is likely to feel severely the discredit arising out of the late case of repudiation of contracts on the part of Boorman, Johnston & Co, in the case of Little & Co, not only on account of the transaction itself and the utter instability which it gives to all commercial paper, but of the pertinacity with which it is persisted in, the false statements, and the pre-varication with which it is sought to be justified. A Wall varication with which it is sought to be justified. A Wall street paper has the following:

A Report lays much stress on the words, "we guarantee said purchase for our account,"—words of utter surplus-sage. How could an express contract, as this was, for the purchase of stock be anything more or less than a guarantee for the follsiment of it on the part of the parties signing it? If this clause had read thus: we guarantee said purchase according to the rules of the Stock and Exchange Board, there would be some such meaning in it as is sought to be attached to it.

The contract, thus guaranteed, was made by a broker, a member of the board, and conformed to all its usages.—This contract of the brokers was guaranteed uncondi-discussion. Its probable operation, both in regard to re-stricting trade and yielding a revenue, has become matter of much special action. There are so many causes in opeof much special action. There are so many causes in operation to isfluence the sale of goods in the markets, that it is scarcely possible to estimate what will be the yield of any given per centage of duty. The present bill is calculated to be an average of near 35 per cent on the whole imports, and to yield a net revenue of $28,000,000. This is based upon the supposition that all circumstances of currency, foreign cost, &c. remaining the same, the imports will amount to the same'as in 1840. This is not so, however. The currency is much more restricted than in that

If from this is deducted the proceeds of the borrowed money, say $150,000,000, which was mostly borrowed in 1837-8, it would make the imports of the last four years average but $52,000,000 against $93,000,000 in the first three years, and at the same average duty as the whole amount, would have yielded but $10,000,000. The banking circulation of the country for the present year, will probably not be far from that of the year 1830 when the high tariff went into operation. In order to see what actually was the operation of the tariff in that year, we may take the following table:—

Tens and coffee which here yielded a revenue of near $4,000,000 are now free, which, had it then been the case, would have reduced the revenue to $19,000,000. The markets were then all rising under the stimulus of the United States Bank, which more than doubled its discounts during the three years subsequent to the passage of the high tariff of 1828. The prices of foreign goods, particularly cotton goods, are much reduced since then, but the minimum of the tariff prevents that reduction from taking any effect here. We will here annex a table of most of the articles under the new tariff, as compared with that of 1832. with that of 1832.

The operation which we have here endeavored to point out in some of the leading articles, will be common in a greater or less extent, to all of them. It may therefore be looked upon as in some degree certain, that the increased duty, in a restricted currency, will check our intercourse with foreign nations, and deprive the government of its income. The effect of the tariff upon those who hold goods, will probably not be so advantageous as they have anticipated — which anticipations have, no doubt, led them to tolerate the present rates of duty. By checkthem to tolerate the present rates of duty. PARR'S LIFE PILLS.

IT is impossible to calculate the many benefits to the human race which must result from the discovery of Old Parr's recipe. The fine herbal medicine which is compounded from its direction has, in thousands of cases, been tried and proved to be the mast efficient remedy of the day. Nor is it confined in its usefulness to the diseases of the poor, for it is sought by, and found in the medicine chests of the more wealthy classes of Great Britain and various parts of the continent of Europe, As a family medicine it is unequalled, and is all powerful in removing bilious and other complaints arising from the derangement of the allimentary ducts, and in purifying the blood. It is certain in the cure of the more delicate complaints incident to females, greateful to the taste, aromatic to the amell, and at the same time a gentle in its operation, yet so effecacious, that so female ought to be without so great a boon, left them by its venerable discoverer, Old-Parr.

It has been but a short time before the public, yet the proprietors have received numerous applications for the Fills from various parts of their good effects in removing diseases prevalent at this season of the year.

To all therefore who are afflicted and in bad health, we would say go to any of the undermentioned agents, where the Genuine Farr's Life fills may be had, viz:—
